Ender Guard at Fort.

At the Fort Biles brigade headquarters where Gens Huerts and Orozco were detained Sunday aftermoon, deputy United States marshal Edward Bryant remained in the office of the besidquarters with the two Mexican generals, chatting in Spanish with them at frequent intervals. A guard of soldiers from the fort remained outside the office and prevented anyone from entering the room where the former provisional president and revolutionary leader were sented.

Col. George H. Morgan, of the 15th cavalry, stated Sunday afternoon that the two generals had been taken to the fort solely because it was feared that a demonstration would result if they consined downtown where the crewd was continuing to grow largat as the news spread over the city that Gen. Huerts and Gen. Orozco were in the federal building.

On the way from the federal building

Gen. Heeria and Gen. Orozoo were in the federal building.

Auto Canches Fire.

On the way from the federal building to Fort Hiles with the two Mexican generals, the automobile in which the two Mexicans, together with chief of police Ion Johnson, Capt W. D. Greet and United States deputy marshals Jers Dubless and Edward Bryant were riding caught fire. The machine was being driven by M. H. Camp and, when the car was rolling along Montana at a good rate of speed, Hames were seen coming from the hood as the car approached the Brown street intersection. The car was stopped, Capt Greet telephones the fire alarm and the party entered another car and continued the trip to the fort. Gen. Heerta was not disturbed by this incident of the trip and only smiled his stoial smile as the change in cars was made. Some waste in the hood of the auto caught fire hut did not damage the machine.

Orozoo were both invited to become the "guesis" of Mr. Cobb. Glancing around at the treops surrounding them Gen. Huerta shrugged his shoulders, smiled and graciously "accepted." On the trip to the federal building, the general was allowed to stop at the Georgette appartment to see Mrs. Fuentes, his daughter, and then was taken to the federal building. Gen. Huerta chatted with the orricins and visitors and seemed parfectly at ease. "I am more straid of hewspaper men than of collectors," as asserted, when they were introduced to him. Gen. Orozoo had little to say. Collector Cobb brought some cigarets to Gen. Huerta and he accepted them with a gracious bow.

Wents Civilian Clothes.

The office was rather warm and Gen. Huerta was perspiring freely, no wore civilian ciothes and a shirt with a soft collar. Gen. Orozoo wore black, with a black the and a white shirt and standing collar.

Juarez Was Excited.

The events in connection with the detention and release of Gen. Huerta and Orosco had a disquieting effect on, the inhabitants of Juarez Sunday night. An unwonted restlessness was apparent in that city, and reports fectived by American officials indicated an unesamens at other points along the bender. Many of the Mexican lactional leaders were not to be found in their accustomed haunts and there was a feeling manifested in certain quarters that additional surgrises were possible. Vigilance was increased by local authorities and border guards against surprises.

Reports that Juarez closed up at midnight were unfounded, however, although it has not been denied that Hipolito Villa came to the El Paso slidg with all his own and the Villa Soverment money early in the evening. It was reported in El Faso that all trains had been canceled on the rail road south of Juarez and right of way given for troop trains to move in.

Gen. Huarta after his release Sunday night.

Gen. Huarta smiled, tighted another cigarette, blew rings of smoke a brief time and gestured that he did not care to answer.

Mr. Beliner, the interpreter, assumed responsibility for arranging for the party to leave the train at Newman, N. M., twenty miles north of El Puso. I arranged that, said Ratner. Now I am sorry that I did. Gen, fluerta wanted to alight from the conch at the uton station but I thought the arrival would attract too large a crowd and that he would be thred shaking hands and talking so I advised getting off at Newman.

SAN DIEGO FAIR MORE ARTISTIC THAN THE OTHER

An El Passan, who has completed a tour both the California fairs, writes as foiof both the California fairs, writes as follows:

The San Diego fair can hardly be compared to the cae at San Francisco in eias, but it is ever so much pretter and has it all over San Francisco in beautiful gardens and flower. The pepper tree greve at the San Diego fair is lovely and every once in a while through it one comes to a pretty purpola covered with blosseming vises from which very fine views of the various buildings may be obtained.

"Everyone in San Francisco was on the verge of freeing to death, the somen were wearing firs and the man heavy overcosts. We were not comfortably warm the whole time.

We were not comformally warm the whole time.

"The San Francisco fair larks the permanent aspect and the artistic aimosphere that has been created in San Diego, for at San Francisco the pister is failing off the buildings and the stations are carroded from the deathmal splash of the fountains and this hamers are very faded, and all these things give a sort of taudity circus effect, though the buildings are wenderful and the califolist too big and nimerous to grasp.

The fire arts palace is semi-circular about a lagoun with a double collocate and circular due in front. The feature of the San Francisco fair is its illuminations, which are gorgeous beyond description."

While United States officiate and city policemen were "guarding" Gens.
